KORETZ IN MURDER FOUND

MELLON'S TAX REFORM SENT TO CONGRESS

Reductions Defined for Lower House.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 16.—(Special.) Secretary Mellon today transmitted to Representative Green (Rep., Ill.), chairman of the house ways and means committee, the text of his proposed complete revision of the revenue law, including the tax reductions authorized by President Coolidge, and a summary of the more important changes in the law proposed by Mr. Mellon.

1. Earned income, defined as wages, salaries, and professional fees, is given a credit of 25 per cent of the amount of the tax attributable to the earned income.

2. The normal tax on the first $4,000 of net income is fixed at 3 per cent and upon the remainder of the net income at 6 per cent.

3. The surtax rates begin at 1 per cent on net income from $10,000 to $12,000; an additional 1 per cent for each $2,000 of net income up to $20,000; then 1 per cent additional for the next $4,000 of net income up to $24,000; and then 1 per cent additional for each $2,000 of net income up to a total of 25 per cent at $100,000 and over.

4. Capital assets are defined as property held by the taxpayer for profit or investment for more than two years. Upon the sale of capital assets the tax on the gain is fixed at 12 1/2 per cent of the gain, and the amount by which the tax is reduced on account of such a loss is limited to 12 1/2 per cent of the loss.

5. The taxpayer is permitted to take as a deduction from his gross income interest on indebtedness and losses of a nonbusiness character only to the extent that the sum of these two items exceeds his wholly tax-exempt interest.

6. In community property states where the husband and wife have a joint interest in certain property of the community, the husband is taxed on the income from the property to the extent that the sum of these two items exceeds his wholly tax-exempt interest.

7. The principle contained in the 1918 revenue act, that liquidating dividends constitute a sale of the stock owned by a shareholder, is retained, and the distribution of earnings, and the payment of dividends, is taxed to the shareholder within the capital gain income of the act and recognizes the full effect of such dividends.

8. On Reorganizing Corporations.

9. The section with reference to the reorganization of corporations has been rewritten to eliminate existing uncertainties in the present act and to include other usual forms of corporate reorganization, to did up to be such as the splitting of one corporation into two or more corporations.

10. Provisions have been inserted to prevent the use of this reorganization section to escape proper taxation by increasing the basis for depreciation or depletion, or by increasing the value of gain or loss from the sale of stock transferred in connection with a reorganization, or by distributing an undivided profit in effect dividends out of earnings.

11. The deduction for discovery depletion is limited to 50 per cent of the net income from the property depleted.

12. In the case of a trust where the trustee has the discretion to distribute or not, the income is taxed to the beneficiary if distributed and to the trustee if not distributed.

13. Where the grantor of a trust reserves the right to change the trustee or himself, the income of the trust is taxed to the grantor.

14. The penalty under section 226, which seeks to penalize corporate officers for avoiding imposition of surtax on the stockholders, is now based on all the income of the corporation which would be taxed in the hands of an individual.

15. The application of the present law requiring an income for a fractional part of a year to be placed on the annual basis is restricted to cases where a return is made for a part of a year as the result of voluntary act of the taxpayer in making a change in the taxable year.

16. Board of Appeals Created.

17. A board of tax appeals is created to hear all appeals from the assessment of additional return and the assessment, which will sit locally in the various judicial circuits throughout the country.

AN HEIR AT LARGE

When Mary Brook regained consciousness she found Rasher again at her bedside. She began to sob hysterically.

"Where is Dr. Cloven? Why isn't he here? And our own nurse—where is she?" Rasher tried to comfort her, but she pulled away.

"How long have you known mother was dead?"

"About an hour. I came here as soon as possible afterwards, fearing you, too, might be in danger."

"In danger? What do you mean? Please tell me. Everybody acts so mysterious." Rasher stroked her forehead tenderly, hoping to spare her, for the present at least, the details which lent a sinister light to the tragedy.

"Try to get some sleep, Mary. Tomorrow you'll feel better, and—"

"No, I want to know now. You are trying to conceal something. If you love me, Harry, tell me now." Rasher drew a long breath.

"Your mother died several hours ago, probably just after you and Dr. Cloven started on the canoe ride. It is believed the first of an overdose of some narcotic."

"Mary sat rigid. 'He did give her something just before—' But then she burst into tears again. 'Oh, no, he couldn't! I don't believe it!' Rasher shrugged. 'I'm sorry, Mary, but I'm afraid you've misplaced your confidence. Cloven is a dangerous man.'"

"Mary looked at him narrowly. 'You've always been prejudiced against him, Harry. To me he has been the soul of kindness and consideration. Possibly Beatrice Thornebrier told you something—'

"She told me plenty!" began Harry, but Mary interrupted.

"Oh, then you did see her?" But Harry failed to catch the significance of her tone. He was cursing the doctor's hypnotic charm that had cast its spell over Mary and caused her to believe in him, even to defend him.

"See her? Certainly I saw her—"

"What to see Dr. Cloven at once!" cried Mary.

"He's in the custody of an officer."

"Oh!" she gasped. "How awful for him, Harry. Did you bring this officer with you in the plane?"

"I brought Dr. Cloven here on this frightful charge. Why, mother was alive when you wanted her. She was challenging Rasher, whose eyes were averted. Her tears dimmed him. He shrunk from hating her further."

"Did you like the doctor so much?" she asked.

"Certainly I liked him. He was always so kind to mother. How could I have helped liking him?" Rasher took her hands.

ROBBERS SPOIL FEAST FOR 2 ON $300 CAFE RAID

Wilton Emrick and his friend, John De Camp, both of Springfield, Ill., ate heartily all day yesterday so that at night they could do justice to fish dinners which John Emrick, Wilton's brother, promised them at the Oakdale Inn, 2385 North Clark street. John is the chef at the inn and his specialty is sea foods.

The two had just arrived for the feast when the door swung open and two colored men walked in. The pair stopped in front of Clement Kruse, owner, better known on North Clark street as "Little Casino," and drew their pistols. The ensuing performance cost Mr. Kruse $300 and a score of customers whatever money they had.

And it cost the two hungry Springfield customers their dinner. For while John had held his hands above his head the fine fish dinners had gone up in smoke.

Illinois Bonus Fund Target of Fraud Raid

By FRANK BUTZOW.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 16.—(Special.)—Several instances of frauds in the distribution of the Illinois bonus fund became public today. It is believed that some $100,000 of the fund has been secured to the records of the state service board is involved in the affair.

So far the service recognition board and the auditor's and state treasurer's offices have been unable to locate the guilty persons. Several employees of the recognition board are understood to be under surveillance.

Two Checks Traced.

Add Gen. Charles E. Black, secretary of the service recognition board, said he had positive knowledge of only a few frauds.

In one case which he cited a bonus check for $10,000 was cashed and cashed in Philadelphia. Another was cashed at a Chicago department store. One check was cashed and deposited in a bank, but the money eventually was traced to the service board.

One version of the method employed by the conspirators is that persons having access to the list sent from the recognition board to the auditor's office substituted wrong addresses on legitimate claims, obtained the checks at place of delivery through confederates, and cashed them there.

Another theory is that bogus names were placed on the list.

The discovery of the frauds came from complaints of veterans who had not received their checks. While these complaints are numerous, investigation shows that many of them bearing numbers below $17,000 are better handled by the board itself for various reasons.

Says 'Quiet Smoke' Caused Fatal Fire on West Side

Edward Carbine, a hostler, was burned to death, eight horses were suffocated and more than a dozen wagons and automobiles wrecked yesterday when a two-story frame building at 4213-4215 West Lake street was destroyed early yesterday. The building, valued at about $25,000, contained the stable of Alex. Huxton, the chief of Huxton's J. Tamlyn and the broom factory of J. Cowham.

Battalion Chief John J. Evans said the fire had been started accidentally by Carbine, who was in charge of the building at the time, when he carelessly threw a lighted match or cigarette into the straw in the broom factory.

CHILD'S DESIRE TO SEE 'BUNNY' BRINGS DEATH

A little girl's curiosity to see the "bunny" which her father had promised to bring her from a hunting trip last night cost her life. The child was Gertrude A. Winkler, 5 years old, of 237 West 124th place, West Hammond, Ill.

Yesterday morning her father, Adolph Winkler, and Stanley Tabarski went hunting. They returned in the evening and stopped in Tabarski's saloon, 247 West 124th place, to get a drink before returning home. Gertrude had seen her father pass the house and, curious to see the "bunny," ran to the saloon.

The hunters had left their guns on a table. Just as Gertrude entered the place Adolph Tabarski, 4 year old son of the owner, picked up one of the guns. He pulled the trigger by accident. The little girl fell, fatally wounded.

An inquest will be held this morning at the Winkler home.

Vampire Auto Kills "Speed Trap" Justice

A sardonic fate, gripping the wheel of a motor car that killed and sped away yesterday ended the kaleidoscopic career of Fred Blawie, justice of the peace and pioneer speed trap inspector of Niles.

As the magistrate was walking toward his home along the Northwest highway near Hanna street in the village he was struck by a black touring car containing four men in hunting dress. After dragging the justice for forty feet, the car tore down the road. A companion, Fred Ewald, called a physician, but Blawie was dead.

Faced Jail Sentence.

For years Justice Blawie had made the name of Niles another to the motorists. In his courtroom, which was above a saloon that served as a recess chamber in the old days, many a motorist was fined after being caught in the speed trap.

At the time of his death Blawie was waiting on a night motorist, left alone and a $500 fine for operating a "branch federal building" in a frame shack at 1254 Clybourn avenue. Here he was wont to pose as "Judge Keweenaw M. Landis" and fine foreigners for making moonshine. A skeptical defendant, believing a federal building should wear at least a coat of paint, visited the real Judge Landis and gave the show away.

Earlier in his career Blawie had posed as a matrimonial agent, providing wives for bachelors and husbands for spinster at $5 each. As the automobile became more popular he established his "trap" for motorists.

Saved Once by Resigning.

Haled before County Judge John E. Owens in 1914 for what the judge termed "gross irregularities," Blawie resigned himself by a diplomatic resignation on a night motorist, however, he came back to office.

In 1915 the magistrate was jailed for operating a confidence game. A year later there was another investigation on charges that he was shaking down motorists. Another year saw him brought into court on a charge of withholding fines imposed in automobile cases. Those things were quiet until 1921, when he was indicted on charges of shaking down drivers. The "Judge Landis" case began in 1920, but it was not until a month ago that Blawie's sentence was upheld by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The justice is survived by a widow and four children. The three youngest children are triplets, 3 years old.

Wide Hunt for Death Car.

County policemen last night were searching for the touring car, which is believed to have gone toward Milwaukee and to have had a broken lamp and windshield.

Shortly after the Niles justice had been killed the Jefferson Park hospital reported the death of Emmanuel Jennings of 1146 West Lake street, colored, a teamster, whose wagon was struck by an automobile a week ago. The two deaths brought the list in Cook county since Jan. 1 to 622.

Raymond Leary of 2323 Grenshaw street, a representative of the Lake-side press, was injured when struck by a machine at Clark street and Chicago avenue. The license of the car, which drove away, was said by the police to have been issued to M. A. Martin of 1421 West Congress street.

Chicaguan Killed in Iowa.

Cedar Falls, Ia., Dec. 16.—(Special.)—Benjamin N. Fish, 50 years old, of 1728 North Clark street, Chicago, died in the hospital here today of injuries received two days ago when the car in which he was riding went over an embankment.

GOING AWAY FOREVER, HE TOLD FRIENDS

New Clews Found in the East.

Leo Koretz told friends in New York the night before he disappeared on Dec. 5, leaving a $10,000,000 burst "oil bubble" as a farewell to victimized friends, that he "was going away on a long trip, and no one will ever see me again."

This was disclosed last night, when Mr. and Mrs. Mary Schoener of the Hotel Ansonia, on upper Broadway, New York, described a parting dinner Koretz had with them on Dec. 4. The Schoeners were located, it is said, through a torn letter found here from Mrs. Millie Fraser of Atlantic City, a sister of Mrs. Schoener.

It was to Mrs. Schoener, it appears, that Koretz confided his purpose of leaving. He explained that he "was a very sick man," in fact, his doctor had given him only six months to live, he was tired and discouraged, and had to have someone from his heavy burdens.

May Be in New York.

Schoener said he had not the least idea of Koretz's destination, and that so far as he knew the missing swindler of millions might still be in New York. When Koretz told the Schoeners, it seems, he told them only that he was going to meet some associates to close a deal for a sugar refinery in Georgia.

Acting on instructions from State Attorney Crowe, however, the Schoeners, particularly Mrs. Schoener, who is an attractive woman in her late 30s, will be questioned today by attaches of the New York district attorney's office. Thus it is hoped to obtain some line on Koretz's intended movements.

Schoener, himself, believed by Koretz into retiring from a profitable position in a tobacco importing firm to take a $25,000 position in the Bayano River Trust company of Panama, he revealed that several New York men had sent several hundreds of thousands of dollars in the Bayano fraud. One man, Schoener said, had invested $250,000 with Koretz.

Trace Letter to East.

Schoener's wife, Mary, it would seem, is the "All" described in a torn letter found at Koretz's imposing suite at the Drake hotel. It was written by Mrs. Fraser, and implored "Leo" to disband his odd attitudes toward "All," who was described as, in despair.

"All," Mrs. Fraser told a Tribune representative, "is my sister, Mrs. Mary Schoener."

Just before Koretz's swindling and night became known, All telephoned me. She said Koretz had been to see her, that he had talked of running away and of a carefully planned flight. She wanted to know if I had heard from him—where he was. She seemed to feel that it might be because of me that Leo had become distant to her.

Ready to Resist.

Koretz had persuaded her husband, who held a splendid position, to go into the Bayano fake with him, and Mr. Schoener was to resign. Perhaps it was the sudden disappearance of the swindler that had made All so excited. He was to get $50,000 a year.

Mrs. Fraser is the widow of James Fraser, a well-known golf professional recently killed in an auto accident. Koretz, she said, had worked on her sympathies, promised her wealth, and posed as a "big brother."

"I shudder now to think what I might have done. I was so sure of his honesty," she said.

Mrs. Fraser received the letter she had written the bubble blower after her sister's frantic telephone call.

Text of Letter.

"Dear Leo," it said, "please tell me what is the trouble between you and All. I have been fair with you. Do this for me. All is just broken-hearted. She can't eat or sleep. Honestly, she cared a lot, so that she phoned me and was crying. You would not see her or talk to her. She is not well, anyhow, and now it might hurt. Call her up or tell her old pal. She asked me if I heard from you. I said yes. She may think it is me. Please write me if there is anything I may be able to do. You promised to see me. I would willingly come to Chicago if you want me to. I care a whole lot; you're not my friend I had. Please don't let anything come between us. Please, Leo, please me at once."

"He told often promised me splendid positions," she continued, "but he never gave them."

And while the story of Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Fraser was being un-

Korets planned to make a record man up soon after Christmas and then to go to Chicago to meet business men in Chicago for his victim, it was learned.

The crisis in his office with women helped with the expressed determination to go to Chicago to make a record and investigation of assets of the Lysano concern are believed to have been on the compelling motives in his mind.

Belief that the grand total of Korets' speculations will increase as the restoration progresses grew when attorney Maurice Barkman, representative of the Lysano family, and an investigator went to look into Korets' "rice lands" in Arkansas.

Evidence has been developed showing Korets mortgaged, in some cases any times over, practically every foot of his rice belt holdings.

Many of these mortgages were obviously a falsity, apparently being signed with fictitious names in Korets' handwriting and duly "sealed" with false seals to keep conveniently in his office.

Some of the mortgages discovered were those of "Al Brogan," of the Shirkley flat fame. Another considered a falsity was that of "John J. Smith."

Korets was undoubtedly the cleverest Jeckyl-Style character ever encountered," declared Sidney Kahmiller, insurance man. "I knew Korets as a Shirkley flat neighbor."

With this new and dramatic means of communication, the world came to the wireless story of Jack Binnis, the wireless operator, who saved the steamship Republic when it collided with the Florida off Nantucket. Wireless was coming into its own.

When the Titanic sank a wireless operator in New York was the first to get the news. His name was David Saranoff. Saranoff now is general manager and vice president of the Radio Corporation of America.

Wireless was catapulted into the lap of a serene world. But no sooner had Marconi established the validity of his surmises than Westinghouse, General Electric and the American Telephone and Telegraph began taking swift notes. Inventors began inventing. The wireless telegraph sprang into wireless telephony. The war started.

Develops Fast During War.

War creates necessity and we know that. It is the same in the wireless world. "The government called it all the companies and individuals like me to help in the expansion of communication. The campaign was an all-out effort. The government was doing three. Dozens of patents developed."

Transmission of information by wireless was loose, unorganized, and uncoordinated. The postal agencies were uncooperative. The American Telephone and Telegraph company, the Westinghouse Electric company, and the Gen-

The Radio Corporation of America.

The war closed and a mass of material remained for research. The Radio Corporation, spurred by the war, had made it the wireless business of the world, with the exception of a few large foreign concerns, into unit control. There remained the investigation of the possibilities of wireless telephony as a public service or as an industrial asset. It was about that time the first broadcasting station was set up and the voice transmitted.

Overnight there was a flood of receiving sets. Every manual training school found its pupils turning from their mechanical construction on Morris chairs and sitting-room whatnots to radio. Every boy was found in the basement untwisting over an amazing clutter of wires and condensers and regulators. The public speech suddenly de-developed weird terminology. Conversa-

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN FACE DAY OF TEARS

Only Good Fellows Can Bring Santa to Them.

Tears or toys? Which shall it be? That is the question as the final week of the annual Good Fellow roundup draws near. Will 39,000 poor children of this great city awaken a week from tomorrow morning and find that Santa Claus has brought them toys? Or will some of them gaze with tear-filled eyes at empty stockings? The week that dawned with the coming of today's Good Fellow army will answer the question of "tears or toys?"

GOOD FELLOWS!

Here's a Form to Fill Out. It Will Aid You in Stating Your Plans for Helping Poor Kids.

If you will be a Good Fellow on Christmas day to some family of poor children in Chicago, please fill out the attached blank and send it to The Tribune Good Fellow Department.

I live at street
I will be Santa Claus to children, and their parents. (as many as you wish)

Please give me the names of children in (state what section of the city you prefer to have assigned to you).

Sign your name

Claus makes his final preparations for his world cruise next Monday night. It is a week when the hoop is jammed with shoppers, when the department stores are taxed to their limits, when Young Chicago brings forth again and again the old old question: "Will Santa stop at our house?" It is a week in which the enlistments in the Good Fellow army will answer the question of "tears or toys?"

1,000 Good Fellows Needed.

A survey of the situation at the Good Fellow headquarters yesterday depicted rather a dismal outlook for the thousands of Chicago's poor children. Not more than half of the poor families have been taken by Good Fellows.

needed, and that his aid in the drive would be appreciated.

"You know I never was a Good Fellow until last year," he said. "In fact, I hated Christmas. It was always too much like a great big heartless give-to-me-and-I'll-give-to-you scheme and I never did a great deal. I just gave the presents that I was expected to give—you know what I mean—and I never had any fun out of it."

The Job That Was Fun.

"Then last year a friend asked me to do a little Good Fellow job for him. I did it only because he was a good friend, but believe me, I never had a better time in my whole life. He gave me the address of a poor family; there were six kids, I think, and I went out shopping for them. That was sort of fun, buying kids' socks, sweaters, stockings, caps, and the toys. I liked it some—never had any kids of my own."

REPUBLICANS IN LEAD IN GREECE; WEAK IN ATHENS

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 16.—(Tribune Radio.)—The republicans scored sweeping successes at Saloniki, Macedonia and Thessalonica today, but were weak in Athens. Tranquillity marked the election day.

Republicans Threaten Revolt.

ATHENS, Dec. 16.—(United News.)—Republicans, facing defeat in the Greek elections today, which they hoped would enable them to oust King George from the Greek throne, now threaten revolution.

Tonight's latest returns showed that 370 moderate Venizelists had been elected to parliament and that only 130 Republicans had been returned. The Republicans declared that they would overthrow the government during the coming week and take over command of the country.

Large Venizelos as Premier.

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 16.—The long postponed elections are taking place today throughout the country. Thus far there have been no reports of disturbances.

The newspapers today print a statement by Premier Venizelos to the effect that if the liberals win and form a government, he will resign and leave the duty of the king to ensure the premiership.

M. Gonatas is reported yesterday to have begged the king to disregard republicanism, as the government had taken measures to make such an eventuality impossible.

MAYA CALENDAR RIGHT; FIND OURS WRONG BY 1 DAY

Marvelous Intellect of Old Tribe Is Confirmed.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—The scientific date in new world history are Aug. 6, 613 B.C., and Dec. 10, 589 B.C., by the present system of marking time, the Peabody Museum of Harvard University announced today in making public the final solution of the chronology of Mayan dates. The solution, made possible by the studies of Dr. H. J. Shinden of the museum, is hailed as a distinct victory for the American school of research in the records of the ancient inhabitants of Central America, since it follows the lines of approach laid down by several scientists of the United States in continuing the distinction to the basic theories of the German, French, and Spanish savants.

"These positive and perfectly defined points in chronology probably fall within the working years of one of the world's first scientists, the unknown mathematical and astronomical genius who invented the Central American calendar and established the Mayan era," the museum's announcement says.

Go Back to 373 B.C.

Actually the numerous dates on the monuments of the great Mayan civilization in Yucatan and adjacent territory are counted from a beginning day which corresponds to Oct. 14, 373 B.C., but this beginning day was reached by adding seven cycles of 144,000 days each for the past of the world before the historical first day of the numerical count.

"This historical first day was Aug. 6, 613 B.C. At this time a numerical record of elapsed days was begun and on the years that followed various astronomical events were put down in connection with the days on which they happened, a procedure which soon gave a picture of time adequate for the perfection of a calendrical machine."

"On the second date, Dec. 10, 589 B.C., the perfected calendar of the Mayas was formally inaugurated, according to an inscription at the ruined Mayan city of Copan, in western Honduras."

Revised by the Inquisition.

"This perfected calendar functioned without the loss of a single day for 2,000 years, only to break down and pass out of use when Mayan books were destroyed by the Spanish inquisition in Yucatan, in A. D. 1561."

Discovery of the key to the ancient calendar of the Central American Indians reveals that surprising intellectual power existed in the western world.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—The earliest date in the new world history is Aug. 4, 613 B. C., and Dec. 10, 580 B. C., by the present system of marking time, the Peabody Museum of Harvard University announced today in making public the final solution of the chronology of the Maya dates. The solution, made possible by the studies of Dr. H. J. Spinden of the museum, is hailed as a historic victory for the American school of research in the records of the ancient inhabitants of Central America, since it follows the lines of approach laid down by several scientists of the United States in connection with the basins theories of the Maya, French, and Spanish savants.

THE INEXHAUSTIBLE FLOW

before the coming of Columbus, the report features, and adds:

"The inauguration of the perfected Maya calendar on Dec. 10, 580 B. C., means the invention, before this date of a symbol for zero—or completion, according to the Maya mind—as well as figures for entire numbers. It means place value notation in the writing of numbers. Now place value notation was unknown to the Greeks and the Romans, and its introduction into western Europe was accomplished by the Arabs.

"This was the Arabic decimal system upon which modern mathematics depend. The Maya system was arranged on a modified basis of twenty, and therefore does not exactly parallel the Arabic system. The inauguration of the Maya calendar at this early time means that the hieroglyphs of the twenty days of the month, the eighteen months of the year, etc., had already taken form."

Dr. Spinden, who is given credit for the solution of a mystery that puzzled scientists for many years, worked out a day for day correlation of the Maya and Gregorian calendars, and corroborated his findings by using dates on monuments in ancient cities such as Copan, Tikal, and Palenque, in connection with absolute astronomical facts and observable astronomical events.

"Three famous tablets at Palenque carry the calculation backward from Sept. 23, 430 A. D., the day of the autumnal equinox, to 373 B. C., in an effort to reconstruct the conditions of the natural year at the epoch of the Maya era," the report says.

"According to our calendar, they reached April 8 instead of April 6, but careful figuring shows that the Maya were correct, while our present calendar is a day wrong in about 3,300 years. Then, to make the coincidence unmistakable, the Maya added 173,200 days to this true April 8 and reached Dec. 22, 2619 B. C., which is exactly the day of the winter solstice."

ICKES ASSAILS 'G.O.P. CONTROL BY PATRONAGE'

"Control of the Republican party by Republicans will be one of the outstanding issues in the presidential primary campaign," according to a statement issued last night by Harold I. Ickes. "Continued dominance by patronage controlled delegates from southern states, where the Republican vote is negligible, will no longer be tolerated."

Taking the national convention from Chicago "because Johnson sentiment here was recognized and feared was properly regarded as a confession of President Coolidge's weakness," Mr. Ickes asserted.

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinch will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for state attorney; it was announced last night by the service men's campaign committee, 125 North Clark street. The same announcement stated Palmer D. Edwards for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state.

FAKE FILM GIRL AWAITS REMOVAL TO CALIFORNIA

In the county jail, wearing a smart tan suit and blonde hair, Miss Helen Alexander, accused of impersonating various stage and screen stars, is awaiting extradition to San Diego, Cal. There she must face a charge of having cashed worthless checks totaling $400, some of which bore the name of Hugh Hefley, Chicago broker and society man. It was the use of Hefley's name that led to her arrest.

Arriving in Chicago from Los Angeles on Dec. 6, the girl was here a week before she was arrested in a West Division street waffle shop while lunching with a friend. She is said to have impersonated Pauline Lord and Pearl White, theatrical notables, to gain the good graces of several wealthy women.

Miss Alexander refused to give any Chicago address or to make any detailed statement. She will have a hearing on Dec. 22.

PADLOCK AURORA BREWERY; SPILL $90,000 BEER

Aurora, Ill., Dec. 16.—(Special.)—Federal officers yesterday emptied $90,000 worth of real beer from the vault of the Aurora Ice and Provisions company, formerly the Aurora brewery, into the Fox river. Five big vats were emptied and in all 2,000 barrels, valued at $40 a barrel, "bootleg" prices, was destroyed. Prohibition agents charge that until the brewery was closed under an injunction several weeks ago it furnished a large daily supply to Chicago saloons.

John J. Doyle, United States deputy marshal, and James Komakas, federal prohibition officer, were in charge of the work. They completed an inventory of the machinery and other equipment of the plant today and placed padlocks and government seals on the doors, in compliance with a recent federal injunction closing the plant for one year.

LYNCH'S PAPERS TO BE RESOUGHT BY GRAND JURY

Brundage Will Tell of Widow's Refusal.

Disclosure of charges that $100,000 to $200,000 belonging to the late Austin J. Lynch were in the vaults of the Chicago National Bank, which was the subject of the robbery, will be made by the grand jury which will sit today to hear the testimony of the witnesses.

There he had attempted to get Mrs. Antonia Lynch, the widow, and Thedora, the daughter of the Thompson "real estate expert," to tell what they knew about it.

Grand Jury May Take Action.

Mrs. Lynch's refusal to tell anything, her flat refusal to come to Chicago to testify before a grand jury or in any way to assist in clearing up the famous robbery may result tonight in an eleventh hour attempt to get action against her by the special grand jury which has been investigating graft practiced during the Thompson administration.

This grand jury was to make its final report and go out of existence this evening. But with Sharbaro's report before him, Attorney General Brundage may have decided that the grand jury should not be disbanded until it has heard the testimony of the witnesses.

Among the safety deposit boxes which were rifled in the Chicago National Bank robbery, it was learned that the vaults of the bank were the subject of the robbery.

It is recalled that Mr. Brundage and his men at the time of the robbery were searching for that very evidence.

It appears to the state's attorney that the wish to get it out of the way may have been the original inspiration for the robbery.

After Mr. Sharbaro located Mrs. Lynch at the Marlborough hotel in St. Louis, Mo., she called in Attorney O'Neill Ryan, former judge, to be present during her talk with Sharbaro. It was brief.

"I know nothing and I'll tell you nothing," Mrs. Lynch told Mr. Sharbaro. "No, I will not go back to Chicago to tell anything."

Mrs. Lynch admitted renting the box in the name of Wagner; it was her maiden name, she said. She is in St. Louis now, she added, visiting her father and mother. But when Mr. Sharbaro asked for their address she came back with, "It's none of your business."

In the midst of the interview two St. Louis detectives burst into the room.

Police Question Sharbaro.

"Where's your badge?" they demanded of Sharbaro. He told them that prosecutors of Cook county do not wear badges. Only on threats of having everybody go to the prosecutor's office in St. Louis did the talk continue.

Mr. Sharbaro's object in the trip to St. Louis was to learn whether Mrs. Lynch knew of $100,000 to $200,000 belonging to her late husband having been in the safety deposit box.

"Mrs. Lynch told me nothing," he said when back in Chicago yesterday. "I shall take further action at once."

poorly were overlooked so that attention would be directed from that box, so it would not appear to have been included in the robbery.

After it is believed now that with about $100,000 in cash and securities in the Lynch box, there were papers that might injure some politicians.

It is recalled that Mr. Brundage and his men at the time of the robbery were searching for that very evidence.

It appears to the state's attorney that the wish to get it out of the way may have been the original inspiration for the robbery.

After Mr. Sharbaro located Mrs. Lynch at the Marlborough hotel in St. Louis, Mo., she called in Attorney O'Neill Ryan, former judge, to be present during her talk with Sharbaro. It was brief.

"I know nothing and I'll tell you nothing," Mrs. Lynch told Mr. Sharbaro. "No, I will not go back to Chicago to tell anything."

Mrs. Lynch admitted renting the box in the name of Wagner; it was her maiden name, she said. She is in St. Louis now, she added, visiting her father and mother. But when Mr. Sharbaro asked for their address she came back with, "It's none of your business."

In the midst of the interview two St. Louis detectives burst into the room.

Police Question Sharbaro.

"Where's your badge?" they demanded of Sharbaro. He told them that prosecutors of Cook county do not wear badges. Only on threats of having everybody go to the prosecutor's office in St. Louis did the talk continue.

Mr. Sharbaro's object in the trip to St. Louis was to learn whether Mrs. Lynch knew of $100,000 to $200,000 belonging to her late husband having been in the safety deposit box.

"Mrs. Lynch told me nothing," he said when back in Chicago yesterday. "I shall take further action at once."

DANIELS SAID TO BE BILL BRYAN'S
DIXIE CANDIDATE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(Special.)—The "dark horse" from Dixie who is being groomed by William Jennings Bryan for the Democratic presidential nomination is believed to be former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels of North Carolina. At least Mr. Daniels is the guess of several southern senators, who argue that the former secretary is about the only public man in the south who measures up to the Bryan standard, especially in the matter of prohibition.

Of all the bone drys in America, none is more so than Mr. Daniels. Besides, Mr. Daniels and the commoner have been for years the closest of friends. Mr. Daniels' friends, however, are of the opinion that he will not become a candidate.

GERMANY ASKS $70,000,000 FOR FOOD PURCHASES

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—In a note handed the reparations commission by Dr. Fischer, president of the war burdens committee, the German government requests a declaration in principle that priority over reparations obligations will be accorded with the Versailles treaty, be granted to a three years' credit up to $70,000,000, for the purchase of wheat and fats.

The note emphasizes the impossibility of delaying such foreign purchases until Germany's internal supplies are exhausted, and declares that approximately 1,500,000 tons of wheat and 10,000 tons of fats monthly are indispensable to Germany. The note adds that the negotiations for foreign credits have shown that credits

PARIS REPLIES TO BERLIN

BY HENRY WALKER.
(Copyright 1923, By The Chicago Tribune.)
PARIS, Dec. 14.—(Tribune Radio.)—Premier Poincaré gave his reply to Charles D'Adhams von Hoesch at 8 o'clock tonight, answering Germany's request for discussions on the Ruhr and Rhineland. Although the official text of the reply has not yet been issued, a high authority says that France declares a willingness to meet Germany at the conference table, but stands pat upon Premier Poincaré's traditional policy that nothing must weaken the supreme authority of the reparations commission. And as for the Ruhr occupation, France and Belgium will listen to what Germany has to offer.

The reply firmly eliminated the German proposal of one or more commissions to consider a way of restoring Germany to the administration of the Ruhr. France and Belgium believe that such a commission would be an inevitable trouble maker and refuse to consider any action not conforming rigorously with the Versailles treaty or tending towards a direct or indirect revision of the treaty.

France also has not changed its views regarding the Ruhr and Rhineland. "It will not consent to weakening the powers of the Reparations commission in the Ruhr nor of the interallied high commission in other occupied territories. France is entirely disposed to listen to German suggestions for economic activities in the Ruhr and Rhineland. Premier Poincaré says that the allied military control commission has not yet been able to resume functioning, and therefore Germany cannot pretend legally to have executed the Versailles treaty."

STRESEMANN IN GLOOM

BY JOHN CLAYTON.
(Copyright 1923, By The Chicago Tribune.)
BERLIN, Dec. 14.—(Tribune Radio.)—An agreement on negotiations with France over the Rhineland and Ruhr question is hopeless, Foreign Minister Gustav Stresemann said this evening.

Outlining the events of the past twenty-four hours before newspaper representatives, guests for tea at the Reichstag, the German foreign minister told his hearers that President Poincaré's answer to the latest German note was a declaration that France could not consider the passive resistance finished so long as the military control commission was not able to recommence its work. In face of this answer Herr Stresemann characterized the chances for a recommencement of operations in the Ruhr and the end of the state of war as hazy.

"I must tell you," Herr Stresemann said, "that a new demarche has been received in the reply from Paris that the passive resistance had not been stopped by Germany and that the military control commission had not resumed work. I can only say that Germany's disarmament is so near completion that many small nations have a stronger military power than Germany and that all the disarmament clauses in the Versailles treaty have been fulfilled."

Herr Stresemann indicated that the government was more than ready for the control commission to resume work, but that the government could not guarantee the safety of French and Belgian officers working in uniform.

Herr Stresemann drew a black picture of the present conditions in Germany. He said the French occupation was one not for reparations, but for destruction. Germany, not knowing its boundaries, with its soil in the hands of the enemy, was no longer a state, he asserted.

The foreign minister pictured Germany as already joined to an unproductive area, with its consuming power greatly reduced, while today proceeds from the Rhine to the Urals. He said that intellectual stagnation threatens, with destruction of the intellectual classes unless they receive help from the outside. Germany today is going rapidly toward a point where the nation will be crushed between the upper and the nether millstones of greedy capitalism and enraged proletarianism.

By inference Herr Stresemann accused France of sabotaging the proposed inquiry into Germany's capacity to pay.

New Defense Coming.
Herr Stresemann began his speech by saying that Germany was on the eve of startling events in foreign politics. The German foreign office archives will be opened for publication of the second series of documents dealing with the time from Bismarck to the world war. He justified their publication on the ground that the whole truth of the events leading up to the war must be known. He appealed to the allied governments to open their archives also, that mistakes in the past may be avoided.

"We are not ashamed of the German past," he asserted. "Whatever our political convictions, we must agree to recognizing great as great and small as small."

Desirable Gifts.

TOO PROUD TO PAY?

The reaction in Paris and London to the President's recent visit to America has been a surprise. Neither capital was caught napping. By Friday Paris let it be known that M. Poincaré is considering early negotiations for a refunding of the French loan. At the same time we are reminded that a precedent may be found in the contract made by the United States for repayment of the advances made by France to the belligerent colonies, amounting to $1,000,000. The term was 140 years, and interest was waived. More need hardly be said, but the hint is not pressed. On the contrary, French officials express the opinion that an arrangement for 2 per cent interest might be made.

In the same day's dispatches we find Mr. Ramsey MacDonald, who may be the next British prime minister, expressing regret that the British government is not in a position to refund the French loan. He refers to us amiably as Great Britain's rich relative.

Thus Mr. Coolidge's consent that unofficial Americans participate in the inquiries into German financial conditions seems likely, indirectly if not directly, to bring about a discussion of the war debt, and the United States will welcome this result. Mr. Hughes has publicly declared that our government has no desire unduly to press any of our debtors, and in this he expresses the sentiment of the country. We recognize the difficulties of the foreign governments, and would not add to them if we can avoid it without injustice to our own people. But when it is explained that M. Poincaré is reluctant to undertake refunding because it would involve the imposition of new taxes and produce unpleasant internal political consequences, it will occur to the American government and people that we, too, are carrying heavy taxes and that we do not enjoy it any more than the French.

As a matter of fact, though the French government finances are badly straitened, France itself is enjoying a considerable prosperity and, it would seem, could bear some increase of taxation to meet reasonable terms of payment on its foreign debt. And, while allowing for French government difficulties, we cannot overlook the fact that they have not prevented the making of huge loans to allies, nor for productive purposes, but for military expenditure. Recently the Sol of Brussels reports, by the coasts of the visit of M. Benes, Czechoslovakian minister of foreign affairs, that the French government had granted credits to the latter of 1,000,000,000 francs. Of this huge sum Poland has received 400,000,000 and 600,000,000 were divided among Romania, Serbia, and Czechoslovakia. The credits were for wholly military objects and were to be repaid in France.

As a marginal note to this interesting statement, we would quote what a British publicist, Mr. Cecil, has recently said, quoting the figures of Gen. Sir Frederick Maurice, a military authority of first rank: "Before the war the strength of the armies of Europe was what is called a peace footing was over 1,700,000 men. The corresponding strength today is over 4,300,000. That looks sinister enough on the surface, but it is not all the real story. Germany, Hungary, Bulgaria have been disarmed. As far as these ex-armies are concerned, there is a reduction of 700,000 men by comparison with 1913. It thus appears that by contrast with the eve of Armageddon ten years ago, when Europe was already a vast camp, the remaining states of Europe, other than ex-armies, have actually increased their standing armies by 1,300,000."

Without entering into the pros and cons of this situation, we in America, save for a few passionate partisans and sentimentalists, find it difficult to accept the theory that the debt to us, which are being paid, with the exception of the British, are a burden on the back of Europe, or that, in the midst of lavish expenditure on armaments, nations cannot be found to begin payment of the huge loans made by us to save these debtors from defeat. We have no disposition to press harshly upon them to take from them any means needed and employed by them for their restoration. But, observing their finances, we can see no reason to expect that if at one stroke of the pen we canceled our claims upon them the result would be anything but a release of further expenditure to make them dominant in military power over their neighbors. We are to continue to indulge in the wasteful public economies which prevail in spite of the great need for retrenchment.

It is well for us, assailed by much sophistry and appeal to sentiment which seems to us rather one-sided, to look over the account with Europe. Here are the debts to us:

cept the theory that the debts to us, which are not being paid, with the exception of the British, are a burden on the back of Europe, or that, in the midst of lavish expenditure on armament, means cannot be found to begin payment on the huge loans made by us to save these debtors from defeat. We have no disposition to press harshly upon them, or to take from them any means needed and employed by them for their restoration. But, observing their attitude, we have no reason to expect that if at once asked to begin to cancel our claims upon them, the result will be anything but a refusal, or, at the best, a tardy and partial payment. The dominant position of the United States, as a pre-eminent in military power over their neighbors, is continuing to indulge in the wasteful public economies which prevail in spite of the great need for retrenchment.

It is well for us, assailed by much sympathy and appeal to sentiment which seems to us rather needless, to look over the account with Europe. Here are the debts to us:

INSURGENT ARMY WITHIN 75 MILES OF MEXICO CITY

left early this morning for Apizaco, where he will organize the federal forces and attack the rebels under Gen. Sanchez.

Gen. Sanchez's advance troops are now near Puebla. That city was evacuated yesterday by the federal troops on account of the revolt of Gen. Maycotte, but the war department announces the intention immediately to retake it. The federal base has been withdrawn from Apizaco, and now is established at San Marcos, from which point the advance is expected to be made soon.

10,000 in West Army.
The war department announced that the troops concentrated at Irapuato have moved forward to Monte Leon, a suburb of Yucuraco, from which point an attack on Gen. Estrada will be made. These troops, under command of Gen. Amaro, number 10,000, of all branches of service. It is believed that Gen. Estrada will not stand in battle, but will withdraw to the west in order to lead the federal army away from Mexico City and to give the rebels in the east an opportunity to attack the capital.

The districts now controlled by the rebels are the state of Jalisco and the country from Puebla east to Vera Cruz and south to Guatemala. It is reported here that Gen. Angel Flores, on the west coast, may revolt at any time. He tried in vain to bring about a compromise between Adolfo de la Huerta and President Obregon, and now he stands to take the field to pacify the country. Gen. Flores is a strong man in the west, and his influence would probably determine the revolution.

Mexico City remains calm. The public realizes the situation of the government is serious, but they think President Obregon will put down the revolt.

2—Gen. Amaro concentrates 10,000 men at Yucuraco against Gen. Estrada, rebel leader.

De la Huerta entered Merida, Gov. Felipe Carrillo, the leading Mexican exponent of communism, departed with a reduced number of followers. They are being pursued by troops. The city is calm and security has been assured.

Campeche and the territory of Quintana Roo supported the movement against the Obregon government. The Yucatan revolutionary cabinet in the name of the interim government, Gen. Juan Ricardo Braca, is busy reorganizing the public services and the railway services which have been interrupted. No disorder is reported throughout the state.

GET WATERWAY TERMINALS NOW, CITY IS TOLD

U. S. Engineer Suggests 4 Possible Sites.

An official memorandum issued last night by Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, army engineer in charge of this district, urged Chicago to acquire sites, easements, and rights of way immediately for waterway terminals that will be required if the lakes to the Gulf of Mexico become a reality.

"There," adds the memorandum, "where the state completes its waterway and the federal barge line and where work to do business here, when chosen sites will be available which the city may develop or lease to others for that purpose."

How to Avoid Contention.
In treating the general terminal problem, Maj. Putnam says:

"Solutions should be sought which will tend to distribute the terminal burden equally. A city should not seek, nor should it be called upon, to provide or authorize terminals which will add unnecessarily to the congestion of the streets."

"On the other hand, a city cannot hope to prosper if it is unreasonably restrictive in the terminal policies."

"Decentralization of commercial and industrial activities and the transportation facilities necessary thereto is of primary importance. A city which adopts and pursues such a policy of de-out the country. The cases of both the government and the taxpayer are presented before the board which acts impartially and the practice there is similar to that before the interstate commerce commission. Upon a decision in favor of the government, the additional tax can be assessed by the commissioner of internal revenue and the taxpayer is left to the remedy in the courts for a recovery of the tax. If the decision is in favor of the taxpayer, the commissioner may not assess the tax but is left to his remedy in the courts for a recovery of the tax. In a hearing in the courts the findings of the board shall be taken as prima facie evidence of the facts contained therein.

Putting Sense in Law

14. The administrative sections of the act have been rewritten with a view to clarifying their provisions, making the statutes of limitations consistent, relieving the necessity for protest on the payment of taxes, and lightening the penalties for minor failures to comply with the act.

15. The tax on telegrams, telephones, leased wires and radio is repealed.

16. The tax on admissions is repealed.

In a letter to Mr. Green, the secretary of the treasury says:

"Under date of Nov. 10, 1922, I wrote you setting forth a comprehensive program of tax reduction. This program appears to have met with a most favorable public reception. I understand from my recent conference with you and Representatives Treadway and Hawley that it is the desire of your committee that its work on tax revision may be commenced without delay and the subject be given the consideration its importance demands. With this end in view, the treasury has prepared a complete draft of the revenue act which embodies in detail my previous recommendations for the revision and for the simplification and clarification of the administrative provisions of the law, and which, in accordance with your suggestion, is at our conference, in herewith transmitted to your committee."

TRIES TO PROVE HE'S MAN HE IS TO CLEAR NAME

President Coolidge will be called on for final decision of the case of George D. Pierlot, who lost his identity when he was sent to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., to serve for three years. The ex-prisoner said yesterday he will appeal to the President officially to give him back his own name lost when, he says, he was convicted of another man's crime under the name of Joseph Sakalos.

Pierlot, after tracing him across the continent to California, induced Sakalos to come to Chicago. There he captured Sakalos and had him arrested on authority from Walter Scott, millionaire and deputy police commissioner of New York City. Attorney Bernard Sandler, who is a captain in the volunteer aeronautical department of the New York police, is acting for Pierlot. "I'll go to President Coolidge with this case," Sandler said at the trial. "My client is innocent; we have the guilty man. He has confessed, but nobody will recognize that my client is the man he says he is."

POLICE HUNT LOST GUY.

The police have been asked to search for Isabella Macdonald, 17 years old, who disappeared from her home at 1244 Foster avenue Saturday. No reason was given for her sudden disappearance.

GOTHAM RECTOR DENIES BISHOPS' RULE OF CHURCH

New York, Dec. 16.—[Special.]—
The ranks of the modernists who challenge the virgin birth of Christ, the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's, and one of the most famous pastors of the city, attacked the Episcopal bishops and asked them to try him for heresy.
Dr. Parks, who is 71 years old, appeared in his pulpit without his vestments, his black robes of ordination.

After the letter of admonition adopted by the Episcopal bishops at the Dallas conference had been read to the congregation, Dr. Parks said:
"I wear no vestments because I come to you today not as your minister but as a doctor of theology. You have heard this letter, which does far more than suggest that members of the clergy are deliberately teaching doctrines contrary to the doctrine of the faith."

Claims Bishops Violate Law.
"The integrity of the clergy is at stake. Am I, who have preached the faith for fifty years, to be called dishonest because I do not agree with my bishop?"

"Am I to be accused of heresy because I preach doctrines for which there is ample foundation in the Scriptures? My answer will be found in I Corinthians, 23."

of man's judgment. He that judgeth me is the Lord."
Dr. Parks went on:
"Are bishops the sole definers of the faith? If they are I have no right to speak. Not one teaching of this church can be changed by one bishop, or by all the bishops put together.
Their authority is carefully respected, and when the English church broke away from the Catholic tradition it gave to each minister an equal authority with his bishop. For them to behave as final definers of the Christian faith is contrary to constitutional law."

Fund to Defend Texas Rector.
Because the Rev. Leo W. Henton, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, Fort Worth, Tex., is facing a trial for denying the virgin birth, the Modern Churchmen's Union of America has raised a fund of $1,000 to fight the case.

LITTLE SERFS OF FARM OBJECT OF CHILD LABOR LAW

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(Special.)—Adoption of the proposed child labor amendment to the constitution, in the interest of which are lined up practically all the organized men and women of the country, will make possible for the first time the application of federal standards to rural child labor.

This is accomplished by the inclusion in the next national child labor law of provisions fixing at least a minimum age and maximum hours of employment of children in the hard manual work of the farm. Neither of the child labor laws passed by congress and found unconstitutional by the supreme court dealt as any point with employment of children in agricultural work, which has been regulated, so far as it has been regulated at all, by the various states.

Farm Work Sidestepped. Many state laws, however, specifically exempt agricultural work from some if not all of the provisions. Only four states make specific provisions regarding the employment of children in agriculture. Nebraska includes work in the best fields under the eight hour and night work provisions of its child labor laws.

Massachusetts and Pennsylvania require special permits to excuse children from school attendance, applying only to school children, and making no attempt to regulate employment.

Ohio is the only state, according to the children's bureau, which has attempted directly to regulate general agricultural employment, the law passed in 1921 prohibiting entirely the employment of children under 14 at all kinds of work, including farm work, except in "irregular service" for not more than four hours a day.

Ignored by the Farmer. While at least twenty states forbid the employment of children under 14 during school hours, "any painful occupation," the tendency has been to ignore the application of these laws to farm work. California is the only state providing special schools for the children of migratory workers.

The result, reported by the children's bureau after investigations conducted in typical farming areas in Illinois, Michigan, North Dakota, Colorado, Texas, Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky, South Carolina, Massachusetts, and Connecticut, is that children from 8 to 16 are working in increasing numbers not only on home farms, but as hired laborers, the majority leaving school to do this work, and dropping in consequence from one to six years behind their grades in school.

PAULA HEAD AT TRAIN. John J. Down, 35 years old, of Hartford, Conn., was boarding a train yesterday in the Pullman street station when he fell dead. Heart disease is believed to have been the cause.

NOW HAYNES AND PINCHOT SCRAP OVER DRY AGENTS

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 16.—(Special.)

Gov. Pinchot and Roy A. Haynes, prohibition commissioner, have resumed the dispute relative to the rights of state police to inspect breweries and distilleries, where the governor and secretary of the Treasury Medien quit more than a month ago.

Out of the Pinchot-Medien controversy came a promise from the secretary that Pennsylvania state policemen would be given power to inspect permit holding breweries and alcohol distilleries.

The permits in Pennsylvania have been modified, a letter from Maj. Haynes shows, to include the following:

"The business which this permit authorizes shall be at all times, during ordinary business hours, subject to inspection by the officers of the Pennsylvania state police."

Haynes asking: "Does the enforcement service of the treasury department hold that criminals may be caught only during ordinary business hours?"

"I refuse to accept as a fulfillment of this promise your permission to inspect breweries and distilleries with a string to it that will hobble the officers of the law."

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(Special.)—Demonstrations given in both houses of the ability of the radical Republican groups to make trouble have convinced the general conviction that this session of congress will be marked by much talk but little action.

In the two weeks that congress has been in session both houses have shown, but not quite, completed organization. The senate has approved the reorganization of the committee on the extension of the chairmanship of the committee on interstate commerce, on which a deadlock prevails.

Approval of committee assignments in the house has been held up by the controversy over the committee on rules, but action is in prospect tomorrow under an agreement by which the radical Republican group supports the committee on the rules of the house.

Committee on the rules of the house is on the verge of action. The Republican leaders were obliged to make this concession in order to keep the ratio of party strength on the power rules committee eight to four.

Little Left for Radicals. Except for giving the radicals representation on the rules committee the Republican leaders of the house have made no concessions in making up the committee lists. As the situation stands the radicals retain control of the committee which handles legislation, but their hold on the rules committee which controls procedure on the floor and in to consider proposed changes in rules is somewhat precarious.

LONG POWER MAY BE CHIEF FACTOR IN THIS CONGRESS

Outlook Is for Words and Not Deeds.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(Special.)—Demonstrations given in both houses of the ability of the radical Republican groups to make trouble have overshadowed the general conviction that this session of congress will be marked by much talk but little action. In the two weeks that congress has been in session both houses have accomplished but not quite completed organization. The senate has approved the election of all committees with the exception of the chairmanship of the committee on interstate commerce, on which a deadlock prevails. Approval of committee assignments in the house has been held up by the controversy over the committee on education, but action is in prospect tomorrow under an agreement by which the radical Republican group supports the election of the chairmanship of the committee on interstate commerce in return for putting Representative Nelson (Rep., Wis.) on the rules committee. The Republican leaders were obliged to make this concession in order to keep the party strength on the power rules committee eight to four.

Except for giving the radicals representation on the rules committee the leadership leaders of the house have made no concessions in making up the committee lists. As the situation stands the radicals retain control of the committee which handles legislation, but have held on the rules committee which controls procedure on the floor and is to consider proposed changes in rules somewhat precarious. There may be a showdown on the election of a chairman of the senate committee on interstate commerce tomorrow. Election of Senator Smith (Dem., S. C.) to the chairmanship with the aid of the radical Republicans is a strong possibility. Comparatively few measures of a controversial nature seem to have been prepared to put hurdles in the way of administration bills in both houses, and while this group does not possess sufficient strength to pass its own measures, its obstructive tactics are more than likely to prove successful.

Holiday Adjournment Seen.
Both houses plan to adjourn by the end of the present week until after the holidays. In neither house will anything be done this week beyond an attempt to complete the organization of committees.

Conditions continue favorable for early action on soldiers' bonus legislation. The declaration by President Coolidge against the bill seems to have affected the situation but slightly, and its passage in both houses appears assured. It is believed the bill will be passed in both houses during January, and that it will be passed over his veto.

Railroad Laws Deadlocked.
The deadlock over the selection of a chairman of the senate committee on interstate commerce gives a line on the situation which will exist when it comes to consideration of railroad legislation. That any railroad legislation will be passed at this session is extremely doubtful. Failure to enact legislation will be satisfactory to the railroad interests and to the administration, although the administration forces favor a few changes in the transportation act, particularly in the consolidation provisions. The radicals possess more power in the senate interstate commerce committee than in any other major committee of congress outside of the agricultural committee. It would not be surprising, particularly if the radicals succeed in forcing the election of some one other than Senator Cummins of Iowa as chairman of the interstate commerce committee, if this group should run away with things in this committee and report out legislation of a far reaching character.

Senate to Start Agriculture.
However, the Republican leaders are not greatly disturbed over this prospect for the reason that the radicals will find it more difficult to pass their bills in the senate.

The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce is more firmly in the control of the conservatives, although the margin there is narrow, as in the case of most committees. It is reasonably sure, however, that a railroad bill of an extremely radical character would be killed either in the house committee or on the floor of the house.

Wants Immigration Station on Governor's Island.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(Special.)—Representative Sol Bloom of New York will introduce in the house tomorrow a bill providing for the removal of the United States government immigration station from Ellis island and the erection of suitable new buildings for immigration purposes on Governor's island at a cost not exceeding $5,000,000.

Blind Husband Gropes in Vain to Save Wife Abrase

Gloucester, Mass., Dec. 16.—While her blind husband groped his way to within a few feet of her Mrs. Albert Parsons today failed in her efforts to beat the fire from her blazing clothing and was fatally burned. Parsons, wondering and terror-stricken, stumbled toward her screams after she had caught fire from her kitchen stove.

No Snow, Carnival Plans to Ship It from Canada

Augusta, Me., Dec. 16.—(Special.)—Since it is impossible to hold a winter carnival worthy of the name without an abundance of snow, natives have arranged to have trainloads of it brought in from Ontario. The carnival is not to take place for about three weeks but the temperature here is low and there is little danger of the snow melting. The committee expects to get its snow supply for about $2,000.

For an enticing change from the ordinary dinners, do this tonight: Have Chicken a la King—as served at the famous College Inn. It is an economy—costs but a few cents. And it takes but a few minutes to prepare.

Hotel cooked
This rarely delicious dish is prepared for you by College Inn chefs. Only the tenderest meats of selected fowls are used. Fresh cultivated mushrooms. Pimientos from Spain. Pure, rich cream. Rare spices. An adventure in deliciousness, you'll agree.

For a few cents
At hotel or restaurant you'd pay $2.50 for three portions. Even if you could prepare it at home, the cost would be triple what it is this way. Yet special processes bring it as an everyday economy to your home.

Serve 3 to 6
Just as it comes, one can is ample for two. Served on toast, there is plenty for three.

To serve 6, generously, simply add half a can of peas and a trifle of creamed gravy.

No cooking, no work
You simply open the can, heat and serve. That is all. In 5 minutes it is ready. No muss, no bother, no cooking.

A surprise tonight
At dinner tonight serve this supremely enticing dish. See how it pleases each member of the family. See, too, how economical—how easily made ready. Just go to grocer or delicatessen, today—and ask for Translates to Box Gory.

Dutch has shown before local fans on numerous occasions. Last summer he met Durman at Aurora and finished a step behind the local hantamweights. In other bouts he has shown his wares to good advantage and members of the Twenty-seventh Ward club will be out in force to lend their moral and financial support.

Alex Translatas, the coast waterweight and a protégé of Jack Dempsey, will make his local debut by taking on the rugged Jimmy Gory at the west side in the ten round semi-welterweight. Jimmy's wily Translatas is a coarser, and Jack Keenan is angling for a match with Mickey Walker, king of the welters.

"Dutch" Sternaman's kicking toe was under the weather yesterday and only for this the bulky Bears would have scored a triumph over the flashy Milwaukee Badgers in a pro grid league game at the Cubs' park. As it was, the official missed four attempts at place-kicks and the two teams battled to a tie for the second time this season. The score was 7 to 7.

Twelfth Night Ball to Be Elaborate Fete, Decorations Indicate

An advance peek at the designs for the decorations of the Twelfth Night Ball is to be held on Jan. 4, reveals the most interesting and elaborate plans. Since the ball is to be a "reunion" of the Twelfth Night Ball, the decorations also will be mainly white, with just enough color to set off the white. The ball is to be held in the two ballrooms of the Hotel Sherman, where last year's Russian ball and the preceding year's Russian ball were given by the Twelfth Night committee. One room is to be converted into a formal garden and the other into a royal palace.

One of the largest society benefits of the season will be the gala performance of the "Chorus Society" tonight at the Garrick for the benefit of the 1930 Dates settlement. Before the performance there will be many dinner parties, some of the largest being given by Mr. and Mrs. John P. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Litzinger, John V. Farwell III, who will entertain for Mr. and Mrs. Miller Brainerd, and George F. Porter.

There are already selling for the benefit performance which Ignace Paderewski will give on Jan. 27 for the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, according to Mr. John Bogden, chairman of the box committee. How to Be Happy Though Married

By DORIS BLAKE

"Except for the accident of birth, why should our children turn to us?" asks Dorothy Canfield Fisher, in her "Mothers and Children." Her query follows the reminder to parents that the school, with its ever increasing paternalism and its varied interests, is taking more and more of the child away from its parents. What with the number of new figures, all of friends, the outward aspects—master teachers of public playgrounds, visiting nurses, kindergarten, and other teachers—there are comparatively few hours of a modern child's life out of school.

"It may be that instead of searching our brains to devise ways for the children to associate with us without too much trouble for us," says Mrs. Fisher, "we would do well to search our hearts to see if it is worth the children's while to associate with us at all."

"Is the life of the homes we give them worth their making an effort to share it?" she asks. "Is the conversation at meetings or around the lamp in the evenings or on the porch in the afternoons really better for them than the British expedient of banishment to a nurse and a nursery or to the various attendants hired by the state or municipality, which are the American substitutes for English governesses?"

It is not enough to take care that children do not associate with "low" or "common" people from whom they might learn profanity or vulgarity. If from the parents' own talk children learn to associate with "low" or "common" people from whom they might learn profanity or vulgarity. Far Trims Many Evening Frocks

By Criminal Love

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Today we alter Kipling's phrase of "the far flung battle line" and say "far flung" of the fur fashion line. Fur is getting to be an absolute obsession on the part of the designer, and it does not matter one whit whether the designer concentrates on frocks, hats, or wraps.

In the present model we find brown seal adding its customary charm to an unusual dinner frock of brown panne velvet. The dounce is quite full and is otherwise embellished by embroidery in gold thread. The frock is draped on the left hip and this draping is accented by loops of self-color grosgrain ribbon.

Speaking of embroidery, one cannot fail to point out the fact that our former maxim of "Beware the embroidery and spoil the gown" is hardly ever applied by the maker of frocks. Embroidery there is, but it does not appear in a modish place. A bit of it finishing the long, narrow sleeves, banding the long, narrow skirt, or occurring in some ingenious skirt section—this is characteristic of a designer distinguished by his restraint of trimming.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY BALLY JOY BROWN.

This is Highly Deserving.

"I have for a neighbor a woman with five small children—the eldest is one of the girls has something wrong with her heart, and is under a doctor's care all the time. The father, deceased, died over a year ago and just how they got along I don't know, but I heard her complaining she could not meet her bills. Do you suppose you could put a 'Good Fellow' in touch with someone who will give the little ones a real Christmas and help the worried mother a little? She is a refined, quiet woman, and the children are lovely."

"Mrs. K."

This deserves help. I hope to be asked for the address.

Home from School Today.

Miss Virginia Erickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Erickson of 534 Surt street, will return from school today for the Christmas holidays.

ORGANIZATION PLANS TO CRUSH ALL CENSORSHIP

New York, Dec. 16.—A new organization designed to crush the principle of censorship, to be known as "The National Council to Protect the Freedom of Art, Literature, and the Press," has been launched, it was announced today by George Creel, the chairman. The council is a reorganization of "The Joint Committee for the Promotion and Protection of Art and Literature," formed a year ago to oppose censorship of all kinds.

Membership, at present, is composed of the following: Authors' League of America, Inc.; Actors' Equity association, Inc.; American Dramatists, National Publishers' association, Inc.; Cinema Camera club, Printing Trades union, American Federation of Musicians, Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.; New York Employing Printers' association, Guild of Free Lance artists, Motion Picture Directors' association, and the Screen Writers' guild.

In outlining the policies of the council, Mr. Creel said: "It is not only proposed censorship that will be fought, but the repeal of existing censorship laws will be urged. It is the principle of censorship itself that we hope to crush, for the censoring of any one form of expression carries a threat of censorship for every other form of expression."

"This is in no sense a movement in favor of license or a campaign for special privileges. At every point the National Council stands squarely in support of the law of the land. What we protest against is what we are formed to fight—censorship and all its attempts to set aside this law in favor of the bigots of personal prejudice and attacks upon liberty marked as attacks upon license."

"PREMIUM COAL" CAUSE OF HIGH PRICES, U. S. SAYS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(Special.)—The federal trade commission, in the fifth of its current reports on the anthracite situation, tonight asserts that "the great evil in the price situation" is due to the "extremely high prices exacted by certain producers," which still range as high as $12.50 a ton. It adds that the main cause of the high prices to the consumer is the existence of high premiums being exacted "by producers of a comparatively small proportion of the total anthracite output."

The report issued tonight deals chiefly with the price received, and by wholesalers of anthracite for premium coal, which forms only a small proportion of the total quantity. Wholesale reports for the two weeks ending Nov. 17, covering only premium coal for domestic and sea sales, the commission says, indicate a marked decrease in the proportion of anthracite on which a gross profit of 75 cents or more a ton was obtained.

"Partial reports from producers for October," the commission declares, "show that the large so-called 'railroad' companies are charging from $8.75 to $9.25 for sizes larger than pea coal, while the price range for the so-called 'independents' reporting was from $8.50 to $12.50 per ton."

Arrest Niles Magistrate on 'Moon' Selling Charge

Police Magistrate Michael Heidinger of Niles was arrested yesterday when Sheriff Hoffman and a squad of deputies raided his (Heidinger's) saloon. Sheriff Hoffman's raiders raided twenty saloons and roadhouses in the suburb, it is said, but found liquor only in Heidinger's and a saloon owned by James O'Malley at 11113 street and Utes avenue, Mount Greenwood.

FOUND DEAD IN BUSHING BOILER. Hurt woman is believed to have caused the death of Niles A. Miller, 27, found dead yesterday in a rooming house at 59 West Chestnut street.

TRANSPORTATION ACT TARGET OF STATES' BODIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(Special.)—Preparations for attack on the transportation act at the present session of congress are being made by the National Association of Railway and Utilities Commissioners, the organization of state railway commissioners.

Restoration of powers taken from them by the act and repeal of the rate making provisions of the law are among the principal changes sought.

The state commissioners will ask congress to give them clearly defined authority to require railroads to make additions and betterments to their plants and facilities.

The state commissioners also want power over distribution of freight cars. They want the interstate commerce commission deprived of authority to regulate the rates and service of electric railroads carrying on local street railway transportation.
